Hello:

Each day for the past eight months we have struggled with the thermostat and battled the combined hazards of rubber cement, unwilling camera subjects, subzero temperatures, would-be superintendents, and impending deadlines.

Therefore we're very pleased (and a little relieved) to present to you the result of our efforts, the 1947 Wagistanian.

We especially wish to thank Mr. Ed Freund and Mr. Carl Bakule at Aagard Studios, Mr. Art Segal and Mrs. Byron Robertson at the Bureau of Engraving, and Mr. Walter Schmidt and Mr. George Nordwall at Augsburg Publishing House who, through their cooperation and suggestions, helped us to make this book possible.

Since the 1947 Wagistanian is essentially a memory book, we hope that the pictures and drawings will bring you pleasant recollections of the past year, both now and in the years to come.

To the Classes of 1947

Greetings to you of the graduating classes of 1947. May success and happiness attend your way as you fan out over the many and varied highways and skyways of life that will be yours for the choosing.

We hope that this, the memory book of your years at Southwest High School, will give you occasional cause to remember and smile as you are reminded of personalities, friends, and events that gave attractive coloring to your life with us here.

We of the student body and faculty who stay on will also be stimulated from time to time as you return and visit us, or as we hear of you and your various activities and successes. At such times we may again thumb through this, our memory book, and remember and smile as we feel our measure of satisfaction and pride in your happiness and achievement.

CLASSES

January Seniors

Joan Witte—Valedictorian
Marcia Roos—Salutatorian

The graduation of the January, 1947, class advanced its members further toward their destination as "Citizens of Tomorrow," the title of their class theme.

This unusually active class was under the supervision of seven different advisers during four years of high school. Yet it came out on top as far as having a varied high school life to look back upon.

The class play, "A Date with Judy," offered the group fun and excitement as well as work. The profits from these two projects, together with the money earned by the June class, will be used to provide an acoustical treatment for the auditorium.

The senior banquet was another memorable affair with their old friend Schmedley present in a skit given by the 12B's.

Due to its small size, the class was able to have many outside parties in addition to customary activities. Included in these were barn dances, sleigh rides, open houses, and a 5:30 A.M. breakfast. Graduation festivities came to a climax as the class made its radio debut on Clellan Card's program the morning after commencement.

A Date With Judy

"If you don't pick up those cues during the second act, I'll have to do a strip tease, play a few selections on my violin, and raise the American flag to keep the audience interested!" Those words were familiar to each member of the January class play cast, since the speaker was the director, Harold Gregory. Luckily for Mr. Gregory, the threats were never carried out.

"A Date with Judy" is the story of an enthusiastic teen-ager who continually and quite unconsciously upsets her family in order to realize her ambition to reign as queen at her club's charity ball. As in most plays of this type, Judy does become queen, but only after making her family and friends completely miserable.

The seniors will long remember Bud Nasby, reading the part of Mrs. Foster so convincingly that he was almost rewarded with a peck on the cheek by Melvin (Don Reiher). . . . Mary McBrien, padded with bath towels, asking everyone if it showed. . . . Morley Gutter- sen, hair-do a la sheep dog, flitting down the stairs, screeching, "Helloooooooooo." . . . Carolyn Nordstrom, charming in red knee-socks, chanting—"The sea, the sea!" . . . Clayt and the muscle dance on the line—"And what wouldn't I give to be queen!" . . . and through it all Mr. Gregory tossing pennies and paper airplanes when anyone leaned toward the "hammy" side. The whole cast felt that the fun was well worth the work.

June Seniors

Connie Dyregrov, salutatorian
Jim Kruskopf, valedictorian
Sally Furber, salutatorian

When the June class of 1947 marched down the aisle, the familiar strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" were the only resemblance to previous commencement exercises. The class adopted and presented "The Holy Grail of Happiness," an entirely new graduation service which was written by Harold Gregory, speech teacher here at Southwest. The new service made it possible for a large group of seniors to participate.

The revolutionary commencement program had been preceded by another "first" for the class. Their play, "Miss I. Q.," presented on May 1 and 2, was so new that the third act was incomplete at the time of its adoption. However, even with script writers changing scenes at 7:45 the evening of the performance, the play proved to be a big success. The much-relieved cast celebrated with a riotous party at Sally Corl's house after the play, an occasion which will remain as one of the outstanding memories of the senior class.

Class Day was another gala affair with a senior auditorium in the morning and a picnic in the afternoon. Thus the June class of 1947 set forth in search of that Holy Grail of Happiness, leaving behind them an unholy trail of good times.

Miss IQ

No kleig lights were in evidence on May 1 or 2 as the crowds poured into the Southwest auditorium, but there was the tenseness and expectancy that always comes with an opening night and a world premier. The graduating class of June, 1947, was presenting "Miss IQ," a three act comedy written by Bill Davidson. As the house lights slowly faded, the audience settled back and the long-awaited event began.

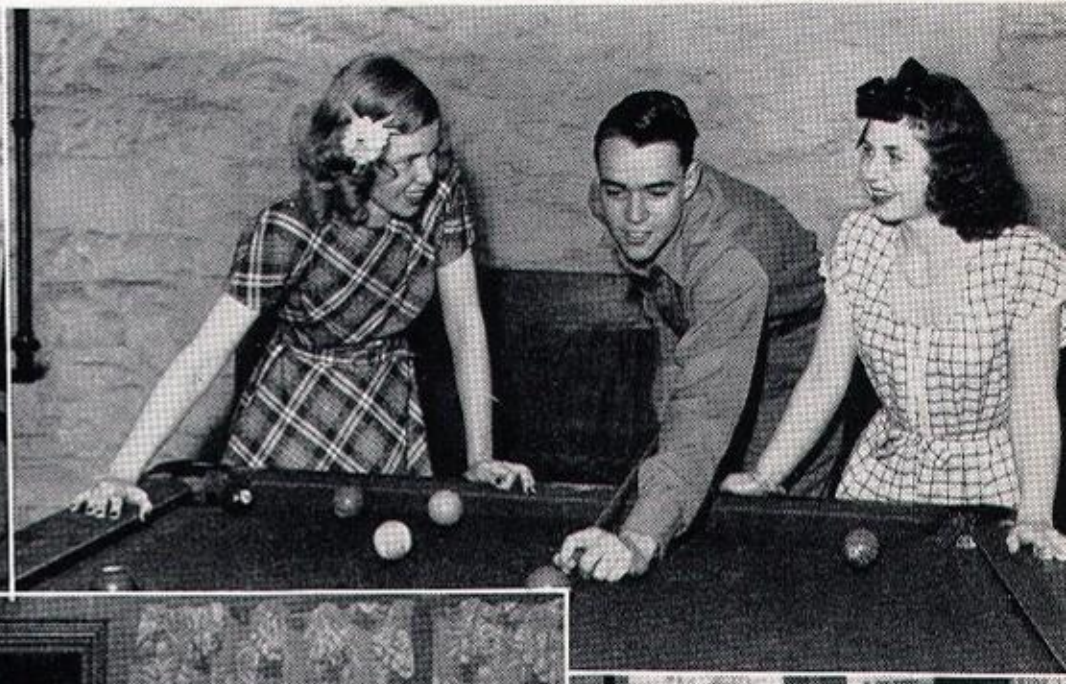

During two fast moving hours the story of Virginia Allen, a former quiz kid, was unfolded. Having moved into a duplex in Winnebegushi, Ginny, played by Nancy Whitney, turned her talents to capturing the heart of the football captain, Beef Anderson (Tony Mooney). Trying to keep her past a deep dark secret, much to the perplexity of her family (Chuck Samuelson, Sally Furber, and Tommy Thompson), she played dumb; and in doing so was constantly in and out of trouble.

"Miss IQ" was work in any language, but the applause that came with the last curtain call was reward enough for work well done. Special credit was given to the director, Mrs. Boylan, and to the student director, Connie Dyregrov.

Cross Country

Completing its fourth year of cross country interscholastic competition, Southwest ran home with its third city championship and state honors as well.

Starting the season against St. Paul Johnson, the team scored a decisive victory by a 19 to 41 count. The second meet saw the Indians romp to another easy victory by a score of 19 to 51 over West with Captain Lind, Hancock, and Johnson tying for first place. In the third rampage, Roosevelt bit the dust.

The 1946 city championship meet found Indians with 40 points. Nearest rivals were West with 87 and Roosevelt with 93. Hancock and Johnson tied with Torp of North for first place. Swanson, Lind, and Thomas supported them. In the state championship meet Johnson led the entire pack of thin clads. Hancock, Lind, Swanson, and Thomas helped give Southwest their first state championship.

Roger Swanson and Clarence Johnson have been elected to lead the 1947 squad as co-captains.

Football

The gridsters' offensive power began to pick up after a slow start. The Edison game gave Southwest her first touchdown, made by John Johnson after a 90-yard run. The Roosevelt game ended with Southwest on the short end of a 20-12 count, but Wally Lilja's two touchdowns were encouraging to Indian fans. After putting up a thrilling fight, Southwest lost to Henry by a score of 7-6, with Herb Johnson scoring the Indian touchdown.

Everything on the Southwest homecoming agenda was gala except the 26-0 defeat handed the Indians by their arch rival Washburn. A 12-12 tie with Vocational wound up the season. Stav Canakes, all-city tackle, has been elected to fill John Johnson's place as captain of next year's team.

Swimming

Indian mermen emerged from city competition this season very decisive victors. Winning all their meets except one, the tankers went on to cop the city and Twin City meet, place fourth in the state, and second in the "Y" invitational, completing a very successful season.

Marshall, the only real competition in the city this year, downed the Indians in their dual tilt, but hard work and a will to win played an important part in dunking the Cards 52-49 in the city.

The following week the tankers submerged Saint Paul Central by a 51-24 count and wrote another championship in their books.

Hockey

City competition was plenty tough this year, as far as the Southwest pucksters were concerned. Three victories in five starts was the record maintained in pre-season contests. In the league opener the Indians downed Central 3-1.

Mid-term graduation took the services of Wally Lilja and John Vial, but the Indians walked off with a 5-3 score over Edison. The pucksters went down under the sticks of a strong Roosevelt club and ended the season in 6th place in league standings. Coach Wohlford looks forward to a good season next year with Bernie Thompson leading the club.

Basketball

Southwest's 1946-47 hoopsters finished a tough season by winning their only game from Henry to put them in a tie for last place in the city league. The five that started nearly in almost every game were entirely made up of juniors and sophomores, and inexperience proved their downfall.

Jerry Connolly, Bill Freeman, and Chuck Schuler sparked the gang through most of their games and Connolly, through his sharpshooting and all around playing, earned city-wide recognition. Since Coach Bill Adam was grooming his squad for next year's season he used his seniors very little. The only senior bucketeers who saw action were George Armour, Dave MacDonald, John Johnson, and Greer Lockhart.

The lack of height had a hampering effect on the Indians. Stav Canakes, the tallest man, measured only a little over six feet.

While Southwest attracted little attention in basketball circles this year, the boys should go places in their next debut for every letterman will be returning.

Baseball

Southwest ball players will be up against far better than average baseball teams in their city competition this year. The Indian aggregation is slated to stand up well in their tilts, however.

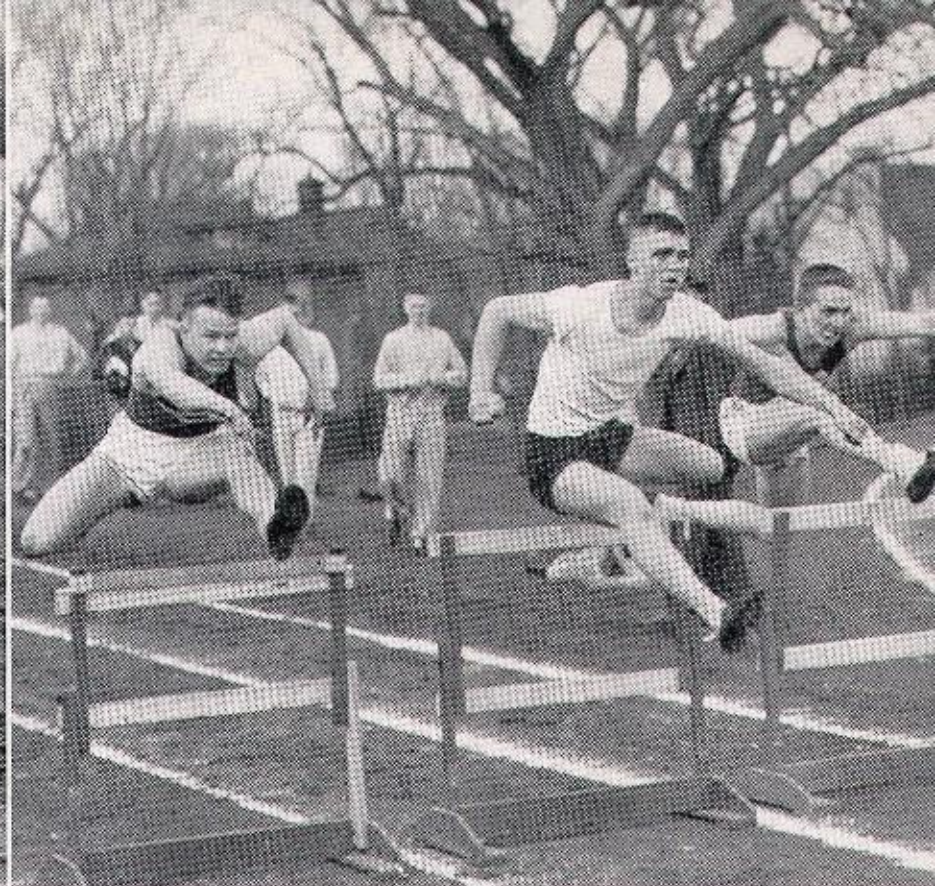

Coach Bill Adam will be using his veteran infield with Dick Vessels holding the first base slot, co-captain "Doc" Armour, second sacker, little Billy Pierson fielding at short stop, and co-captain Verne Anderson holding down the "hot corner" at the far end of the third base line. The pitching staff consists of sophomore Jerry Connolly and Clem Moore. The behind the plate position boasts veteran Jack Witta and the outfield will be taken care of by Stav Canakes, Roger Forberg, and Bob Anderson.

Pre-season favorites in the city league are Washburn and West.

Track

Southwest, state champions of '46, had another successful season this year although they didn't repeat in the state.

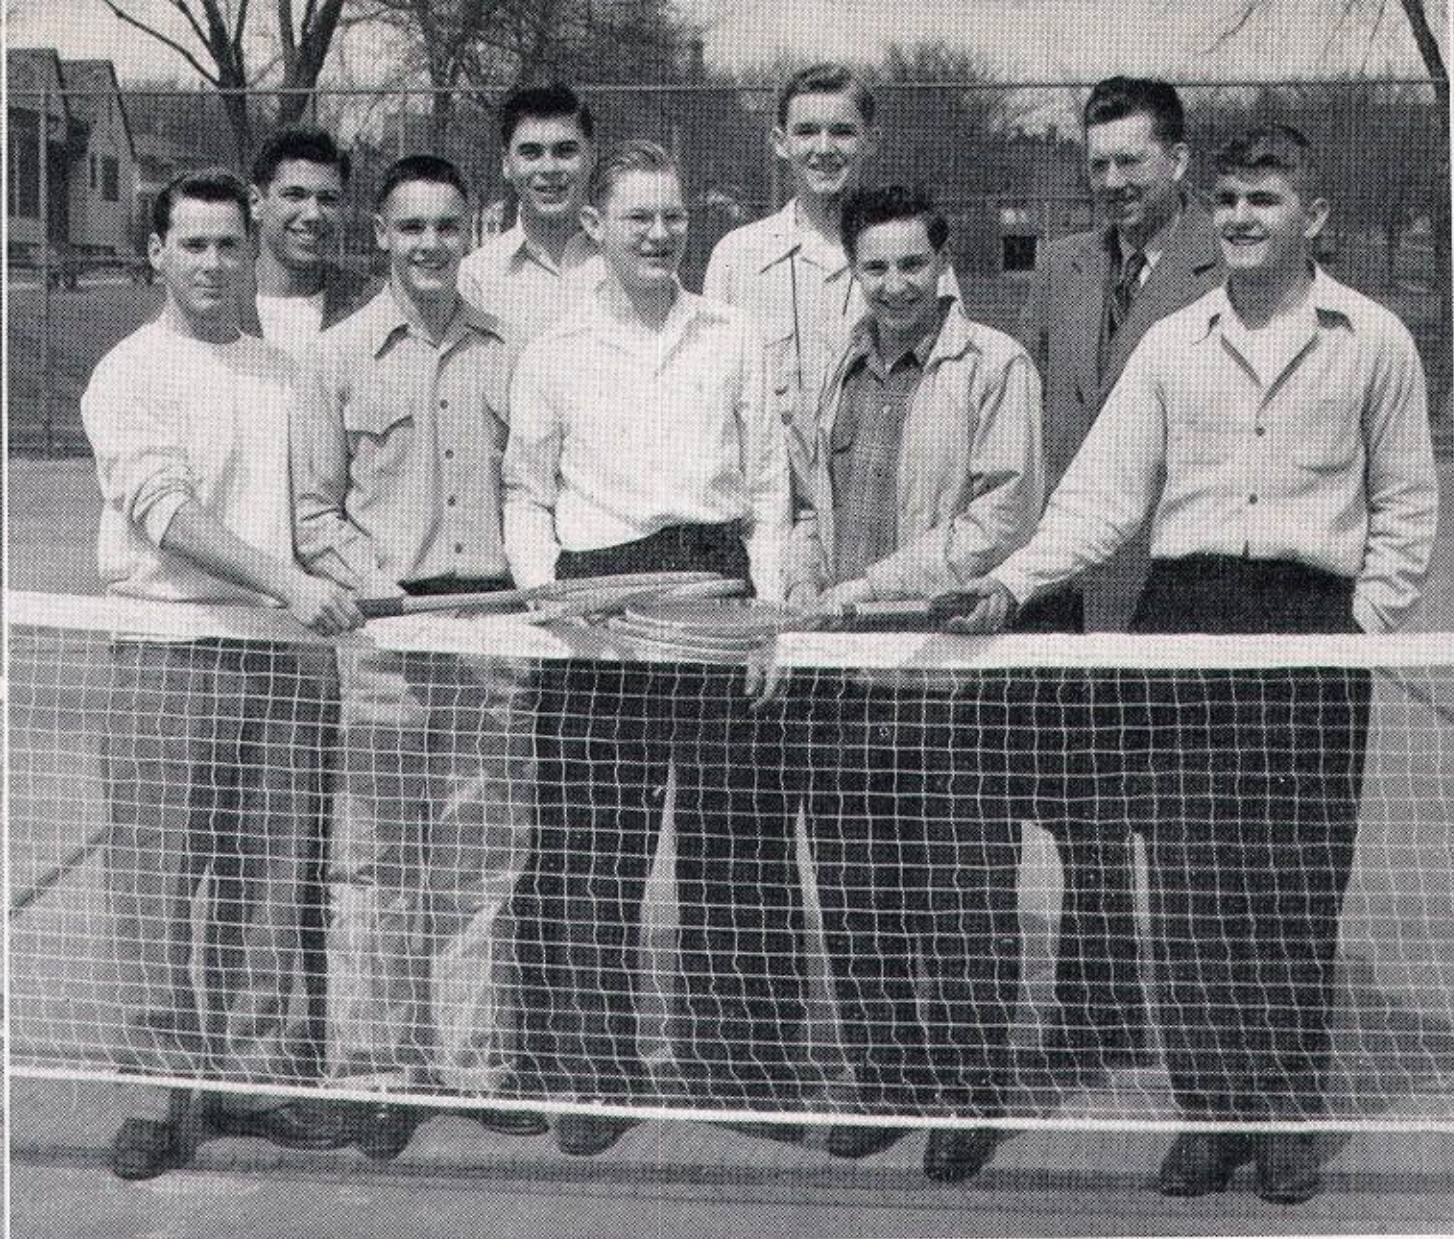

The strongest event for the Indians has been the mile. Lind, Kallestad, Hancock, Munson, Wilson, and Jerry Thomas are the Indian distance men. The half milers, Johnson, Durkee, and Alford, were also point getters. This year the Indians had an outstanding mile relay team composed of Swanson, Lind, Spicola, and Kennison. Running the dashes were O'Brien, Dimond, Segal, and Kennison. The third strong event on Coach Halley's thin-clads was the high hurdles, Ederer, Blumer, Miller, and Lincoln, who won both the Washburn and the City Relays as did the four mile team. They were almost as strong in the low hurdles where Jerry Greene and Ederer carried the load. Because Byrl Thompson was declared ineligible for city competition, the Indians didn't have their usual strength in the weight events. Win Johnson, Moran, and Hildebrand got points with the shot and discus. Bartle, Purdy, and Dosen worked with broad jump, high jump, and pole vault.

Silver Tri, Blue Tri, and Seton Hi are three clubs which add zest and interest to the school routine for many Southwest girls.

Silver Tri is the younger branch of the Y-Teens made up of ninth and tenth graders. It is an energetic group which attracts many girls with its numerous and varied activities. Its special projects this year have included the sending of a Thanksgiving basket and the helping with the Christmas Seal drive. A sleigh ride stands out as an important social event.

The always active Blue Tri inaugurated a new idea this year with its interest groups. They have covered such fields as drama, racial prejudice, boy and girl relationships, bridge playing, and charm. Keeping bowling scores for the blind and caring for the school lost and found have been its prime service projects. Social affairs have included a joint barn dance with Silver Tri and West High Y-Teens and the annual overnight at Lyman Lodge.

Seton Hi, which admits girls from all grades, has had a full program with its hayride, overnight, and spring tea. Knitting bed socks for the Red Cross has been an interesting and worthwhile pastime for Seton Hi members.

The Red Cross council is made up of representatives from each advisory, and it is through the activities of these representatives that Red Cross collections of all kinds are made. The fact that this year Southwest oversubscribed its Red Cross financial goal by 90 per cent is a testimonial to their efficiency.

ETHICS COMMITTEE

The Ethics Committee, which is chosen by the student council, acts as a counseling body for the purpose of persuading pupils who break rules to cooperate in making student government a success. Offenses which merit an appearance before this body are made a part of the offender's permanent school record which is kept on file in the office.

PAR-O HI-Y

The Par-O Hi-Y, a club made up of eleventh and twelfth grade boys and a faculty adviser, is sponsored by the Y.M.C.A. At Christmas time the Par-O's collected food, clothing, and medicine for the people on the island of Calawun, Luzon, and at Thanksgiving, together with Blue Tri, they put on the Thanksgiving auditorium.

BRAVES TORCH CLUB

The Braves Torch Club, a Hi-Y made up of ninth and tenth grade boys, has spent the school year working to carry out its purpose: "To create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character." Part of their activities have included repairing toys for underprivileged children and donating money to the recent F.O.B. campaign.

OFFICE ASSISTANTS

Trustworthiness, dependability, initiative, and adaptability are some of the qualities of the girls who serve as office assistants. This service not only gives valuable experience to the girls but it contributes to the smooth running of the school.

LIBRARY ASSISTANTS

Standing: Aljean Tyler, Beverly Hayer, Diane Williamson. . . . Seated: Janet Sholes, Peggy Mayn, Rose Taus, Arlene Johnson, Miss Mary Lou Walkup. . . . Seated front of table: Sue Woodward.

The girls who serve as library assistants under Miss Walkup are learning efficiency and patience while helping in the library. Their work makes it easier for other students to study in a quiet, orderly library.

STAGE CREW

Our efficient stage crew designs, paints, and builds all scenery for the class plays and the spring revue, and also takes care of the lighting and properties for auditoriums. Their effectiveness is due to the stage crew's work.

V.A.C.

All visual equipment, including movies and slides, is under the direction of the V.A.C. These boys also have charge of the inter-communication and public address systems, records, and record machines.

DEBATE

Our debate squad tossed around arguments for and against socialized medicine with considerable skill. In the Region V Tournament, Charles Frisch and Lois Schall managed to earn a tie for second place. In declamation contests six competed. Lois Schall won top ratings in both the district and regional meets in manuscript reading.

HALL AND LUNCHROOM MONITORS

In connection with student government, hall and lunchroom monitors are on duty during both lunches to make lunchroom and hall condition as pleasant as possible and, if necessary, to remind students of the proper procedures. It is through their efforts that lunchroom tables are kept clean and classes are not disturbed at noon-time.

Music Department

"Born without teeth, hair, or brains" may not be an accurate description of the Southwest a cappella choir but it is music director O. B. Dahle's favorite quip. The band, choir and glee club have been busy every minute of the time practicing for and putting on programs and concerts here and at churches and other schools. There have been the Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter programs for the students, the Christmas concert and the P.T.A. concert for the parents, and the choir's trips to the auditorium for the M.E.A. sing, to Patrick Henry and to Washburn, to St. Olaf College for their spring festival, and to WCCO for their big program over the air.

Just in case you would like to know a little more about these programs we'll describe one or two of them more completely. The evening Christmas concert was an exciting spectacle of Christmas trees, colored lights, choir robes, and a gorgeous stage setting. The choir added to the festive spirit by singing several appropriate songs and the band did some wonderful accompanying and solos. The Easter program, which was given in an auditorium, was solemnly beautiful with its lighted cross, palms, psuedo-stained glass windows, and religious songs rendered by the choir. Altogether, it is certainly agreed that this has been a wonderful year for the musicians.

Under the motto "Only A Messy Bessy Hands In Sloppy Copy" the Arrow staff has industriously edited its monthly copy of "The Southwest Arrow."

Aside from the actual writing of school news by these inch-crazy reporters, perhaps the most colorful aspect is the news room itself. A visitor is dazed by the hubbub of the typewriters, pupils translating their French homework and that inevitable "1,1½,2½,3" of the headline writers. The blackboard covered with its assignments and page plans has the interesting feature of a note system to let Mrs. Zitt know where to locate students on special assignments.

This year as a result of the P.T.A. rummage sale the Arrow room acquired some unusual decorations in the figure of a "de-horned" plaster deer, a bouquet of artificial roses, and a goldfish bowl. This last lovely acquisition is now the residence of the staff's goldfish mascots, "Slug and Set." Perhaps they are the only calm individuals on the scene as the staff continues to prove a successful school newspaper can be produced under the reign of informality.

Student Council

The Southwest Student Council, which has become the governing body of the students and a means of contact between students and faculty, has enjoyed a year of increased responsibility and achievement. In addition it has worked in close cooperation with the P.T.A.

The council's list of accomplishments is long and varied. New football uniforms, concessions at games, homework standards, lunchroom control, club regulation, the ethics committee, and certain forms of student discipline were underwritten.

A student handbook entitled "The Yusaya," an Indian word meaning guide, greeted the freshmen and aided them in finding their way around as well as keeping them informed about Southwest's curricular program and its short but lustrous history.

Paper sales solved most of the council's financial worries for the year and provided a class-free day. On paper sale days drivers cram the parking lot with their jalopies and family Cadillacs. During the morning cars whiz merrily in and out of the muddy parking lot (it usually rains) as drivers and helpers work industriously to bring in paper. By two o'clock or so the job is completed and the rest of the afternoon is spent in neighborhood coke bars. Except for several small incidents such as Doug Pearson's independent trailer bounding onto the street car tracks the day ends without mishap.

The whole week before homecoming was like a day at the county fair—committee meetings, arguments, and last minute changes. But the actual ceremonies ran smoothly with the school and its warriors decked out in Indian regalia. The day reached its climax with the dedication of the Southwest Memorial Field. The only disappointment was the walloping our team took at the hands of the millers (26-0). At the homecoming dance given by the council well over 600 people thronged the Indian gym where the pow wow was held, adding $250 to the council treasury.

Our program has been successful only through student cooperation and proper administration. Our faculty advisor, Mr. Evan L. Haaheim, has given his time, support, and an amazing amount of patience to the group. The council was guided by Jim Kruskopf, President; Carolyn Campbell, Vice President; Sally Furber, Corresponding Secretary; Betty Curle, Secretary; Bill Plummer, Treasurer; and Bob McCartney, Sergeant-at-Arms.
